All Fireworks Are Illegal in Fort Collins City Limits

All fireworks, including sparklers and snakes, continue to be illegal within the Fort Collins city limits. In an area with typically dry and hot summers, and wildfire season on its way, following fireworks laws can help prevent fires, injuries and fines. They can also cause fear in veterans, animals and children so avoiding fireworks may also be an important courtesy to your neighbors.

Each year, PFA responds to multiple fires caused by fireworks use and thousands of people across the nation suffer fireworks-related injuries. The law, which has been in place for almost 50 years, was established to prevent injuries and fires within the community.

Possession and use (without a permit) of fireworks may result in confiscation of the fireworks, an issuance of a summons into municipal court, and a fine. Have a safe and fine-free holiday by leaving the fireworks to the professionals and attending a community fireworks show in the area.

You can report hearing or seeing fireworks through the online tool at <http://bit.ly/ReportFireworksFC> or by calling the Fort Collins Police Services non-emergency number: 970-419-3273. Reports will be shared with Fort Collins Emergency Dispatchers. If you need to report a fire, fireworks-related injury, or other emergency, please call 911.

If you would like to help spread the word or do not want fireworks in your neighborhood, pick up your own yard sign at the following locations.
